SEMI-DUES

Notice is hereby given that the next stated meeting of the Delaware Valley Conjurers Club will be held on Monday, May 10, 1993, at 7:30 post meridiem. Prez Kelly has decreed that the program for the meeting will be Coin Magic. I suppose we can review basic coin sleights, and then go on from there. I think I recall reading somewhere that there are an infinite number of tricks that can be done with cards (and Marc DeSouza knows all of them), but only a handful of good coin tricks. Let's see what we can come up with.

WARNING! WARNING! There might be a reporter from a local newspaper at the meeting Monday night. While it is OK (and encouraged) that we impress the reporter with our wit and skill, Prez Kelly wants us not to expose any of the secret stuff that only we know (like the thing with the goat). I guess the plan is to perform/demonstrate our coin skills first, and then, once the infidel has left, we can tip everything.

Remember when we had the auction of John Wade's stuff, and it was recommended that the videotapes be available for member rentals? In theory, that system is working, but only if those who rent bring back the tapes. There are 6 tapes in the library, but I only have 2 of them. So, if you have any of the remaining 4 tapes, please bring them to the meeting so somebody else can rent them. Rental fee is $5 a month. I haven't decided on a late fee yet.

Somehow, the Delaware Knights of Magic got their hands on a DVCC membership list (yeah, I know, I need to make up a new one - as soon as EVERYONE HAS PAID THEIR DUES, and I know who is still a member, I'll do it - maybe by the June meeting). Anyway, for those of you who did not receive a copy of their newsletter, on Thursday, May 13, they will be having Danny Tong doing his stand-up lecture. Cost is $10 for non-members, $5 if you belong. The DKOM meets at the Delaware Association of Police Hall, located at 2201 Lancaster Avenue, Wilmington, DE. I have no idea where that is, but I'm sure some of our club members can tell us.

Magic in the area: Castle Magic is a revue that is appearing at the Trump Castle in Atlantic City. I saw a great big billboard for this show on I-95, but my wife was driving, so I couldn't catch the names of the performers, seeing as how we were traveling at close to warp speed...David Copperfield, of roman numeral TV fame, is coming to one of the casinos in May or June (aren't you impressed with my fact-gathering skills?).

Next Month: June. Maybe it's time for rubber band magic again.
