Newsletter

AUGUST 1994

Notice is hereby given that the next stated meeting of the Delaware Valley Conjurers Club will be held on Monday, August 8, 1994, at 6:30 post meridiem (please note the time change). For the 3rd year in a row, it's the annual Go-to-Dinner-with-the-Club Night. As before, we will meet at the Chinese restaurant just down the street from the church, the Szechuan Royal (3703 Garrett Road, Drexel Hill, 610.284.4242). The mealtime order of business will be eating (of course) and talking about anything your little hearts' desire, after which we can all do some magic.

Let's really offend our hosts and just do tacky Oriental magic. Bring all of your old garishly painted props that are supposed to look Chinese and do the tricks with a fake Chinese accent. Then we'll start looking for a different place for next year. Maybe we'll go to that new German-Chinese restaurant, except I hear that an hour after you eat, you're hungry for power.

(There's not a lot to report, so I'm trying to fill up the page.)

Here's an OJ joke you can tell in mixed company:

Knock, knock.

Who's there?

OJ.

OJ who?

OK, you're on the jury.

The ever popular MAES convention is still set for September 8-10 at the Embers Convention Center in Carlisle, PA. Lotta talent (Doc Eason, Dan Fleshman, Marc DeSouza, Ray Mertz, and more), lotta dealers (Bob Little, Lee Jacobs, Mario Carrandi, Bob King, and, again, more), contests, lectures, shows, ... All this for $60 and the cheapest rooms on the East Coast. Call Rick Westhafer at 717.671.9272 for more info.

Next Month: September. Contests? Lecture? Rubber band magic? I don't know.
